Cost-Utilization Study of Short-Term Acute Care Orthopaedic Surgeons With Use of Telemedicine. To determine the effects of telemedicine and orthopaedic surgeon model on length of stay, cost, and utilization in short-term acute care (STAC) orthopaedic patients. We compared consecutive patients admitted through the emergency department at 4 STACs from December 2013 to May 2015. Average length of stay was compared for STAC patients, telemedicine (T), telemedicine consultant (TC), and resident (R) model groups. Cost and utilization were also compared by payer type (Medicare, commercial, Medicaid). The effects of use of telemedicine and model on length of stay and cost were analyzed using a multivariable linear regression model controlling for demographics and comorbidity measures. A total of 880 patients were included; mean age was 69.2 years (SD 13.4), 70.7% were male, and 73.0% were white. The mean age for the TC group was 69.3 years (SD 13.2) (P =.911), 73.5 years (SD 12.9) for the R model (P =.111), 69.8 years (SD 13.3) for the T model (P =.297), and 71.4 years (SD 15.4) for the STAC model (P =.076). There were no statistically significant differences in length of stay or cost for the 3 groups. A T model, but not the TC model, significantly reduced cost for Medicare patients. Patients admitted through the emergency department in an orthopaedic STAC setting had a comparable 3da54e8ca3
