Consultations report that looks at the global drug market in the period to the end of 2010, as well as the key market opportunities.

According to the report, the growth of the population that is ageing is increasing the demand for pharmaceuticals. This is creating the need for the development of new drugs. The report states that the global pharmaceutical market was valued at US$1.5 trillion in 2010, and is expected to be worth US$2.6 trillion by 2015. The report also states that the generic drugs market is expected to grow at a faster rate in the coming years, as it is easier to manufacture generic drugs than to develop a new drug. Also, there is an increasing demand for herbal drugs due to the increased awareness about the side effects of conventional drugs. This is creating the need for the development of new drugs. “The global pharmaceutical market will continue to grow at a fast pace in the coming years,” says the report. “The availability of generic drugs that are easy to manufacture is expected to accelerate the growth of the global market.” a1d647c40b
