The new Album Player from Mutagenics Software is Music from various sites and streaming services on the internet is great, but wouldn't you like to collect the tracks in one convenient location and be able to listen to them in a different order from time to time? It is not easy to travel with your collection because the songs are spread out over various songs app folders on your computer, so a simple solution is to create a playlist where you can put all of the tracks you want to listen to. Spotify is a wonderful streaming service that works with your phone to give you access to millions of songs. Any user can create playlists on the Spotify service to arrange their music and then listen to those playlists at their leisure. We use Spotify every day and find that it allows us to listen to music in a much different fashion than if we only had one song from each artist in our collection. To create a custom Spotify playlist, all you have to do is select the songs you want, then click the plus button, and then select the Spotify button. The add music feature will pop up, which you can open by clicking the open box. This will open up a website on your phone where you can select the songs you want to add to your playlist. When you have selected all of the songs you want to add to your custom Spotify playlist, click the plus button next to the "add music" button again. You should now see a Spotify button that looks like a small speaker. Tap that and your songs will be added. Once your songs are added to your custom Spotify playlist, you can simply close the Spotify button and continue listening to your music without having to worry about losing your playlist. Creating and managing playlist can be done using web services or the command line. Quick Search Searches through the track list by Artist, Title, Year or Album. Searching on the command line is possible by entering the search text in a text field. The search field can be either incrementally searched or you can simply type in the text you want to search on. Music Folder A folder to organize music files into folders. Categories can be "Added", "Deleted", "Modified", "Played" or "Selected". Folder Printing lets you print folders with cover art, videos and all tracks. Playlist Printing lets you create a print out of your playlist. Playlist titles can be printed as well. Quick Play Playlist allows users to create their own playlists for easy and quick access
