Fantasy Grounds is the best tool for creating a full 5E AD&D-style tabletop RPG. We've been creating and supporting Fantasy Grounds for over a decade and have been featured in many magazines, including Adventurer's League Magazine and Google's For Authors Blog. Immerse yourself in a dark fantasy world. Make your own characters and take a journey down into the lands of the dead. Explore the land of endless shadow. If you ever dreamed of inhabiting the depths, this is your chance. It's no time to be afraid. Just grab your torch and your courage, and follow the trails of the creatures that live in the Underworld. This project brings you five new locations to explore: The Darkness Encampment, Dead Man's Dump, Prickrock Alley, Ghost Town, and Underworld Entrance. Each has a deck of encounters to provide unique dangers to your party. You could run your adventures here, or get the encounters ready for your other games. Underworld Lairs An alliance of cultists, ghouls, and vampires. A scheme of the dark gods against humanity. New maps, dark realms, monstrous societies! A few torches, and a mountain of courage. That's all it takes to go down into the lands of endless darkness. This project delivers a full 5th Edition campaign of dark fantasy adventure. It begins with undead plagues upon the surface, and then sends the heroes into the Underworld. Into the hungry dark. Allied with vampires, the darakhul of the Ghoul Imperium turn their attention to the surface. Emperor Nicoforus the Pale remains wary of further expansion, but others are not satisfied with caution. These ghouls have set plans in motion to gain further control of the surface world and spread their dark religion across the land. This product includes: A set of additional encounters, the Underworld Lairs These standalone, single-map adventures are similar to Eldritch Lairs or Creature Codex Lairs Requires: An active subscription or a one time purchase of a Fantasy Grounds Full or Ultimate license and the included 5E Compatible ruleset. You Only Live Over And Over is a puzzle game, but more than that, it's an adventure game. The only guarantee is that you will die... A LOT. Your job is to solve puzzles that ensure you can keep on breathing and moving through the map. Solving the puzzles will unlock doors that will lead you to new areas of the map, where you will be able to learn more about this mysterious world of danger and trouble. All puzzles are logically connected, so it's easy to remember where you came from and how you got there, but it's not easy to remember how you got there as you're dead. So be quick! The more you explore the map, the more you'll find, but be warned: every time you die, it's game over. Which means if you die in a vital spot or miss a vital spot, then it's your own fault. So be careful! (Not exactly like that. Don't worry.) --- #88Maximilian 2.5 months in development2013-02-19Bi-weekly free update for first-time users. This update contains 3 different types of puzzles: * The Maze: A maze that has no exit, but instead has many, many solutions. * The Water Tower: A puzzle where you have to navigate a water tower by finding as many of the water pipes as you can. * The Rock Outcrops: A series of puzzle where you have to guide a rock through the landscape. Tired of the maze? Tired of the water tower? Tired of the rock. I'm sure you're looking for something new and unique. There will also be new decorations available, new items like a hammer and a flat pack, and new music. --- What's new in 2.5: * The Water Tower - a puzzle where you have to navigate a water tower by finding as many of the water pipes as you can. * The Rock Outcrops - a series of puzzle where you have to guide a rock through the landscape. #Maxi in a nutshell: Manage your time wisely and use it wisely to survive. Solve as many puzzles as you can in the time limit, and then repeat the process as many times as you'd like. #Timelimit: The time limit is an important feature of the game. 86 seconds can feel like a long time, but you need to remember that without the time limit you'd be c9d1549cdd

2010: "Who Wins and When Is it Win?"? In this episode we'll be talking with Joseph Schuenemann, one of THE major chess podcast co-hosts at ChessGeekGames.com. We'll talk about how and why we decided to go ahead with an independent podcast, what we've learned, and what we might learn from our success. GIGACHESS Show Notes What We Learned When Making the Podcast 1. It was a funny moment for our guests at first, getting used to our voices. After a week we were calling each other by our nicknames. I guess that shows that we've got some friends in common! It wasn't easy for us to deal with the low budgets. Between the lack of commercial options for a pod, it was a lot of fun for us to record for free. Those songs would have been easier to produce if we'd had more time to do it. 3. Getting interviews with chessplayers was tough. Most of the bigger guys are keen to go on the show and discuss topics from the game. But finding smaller time players without the following is difficult. Other host interviewers have mentioned interviewing players of lower rating or even lower experience. Our feedback when we began was similar. We were trying to bring more variety to the show by having hosts discuss topics of interest outside chess. One thing that our hosts liked was that the different subjects were open to open discussion. 4. Shows have to be even easier for the listener. In an interview, it can be easy to have to control the conversation. The radio show format allows to talk (and sometimes argue) about things that you're interested in. So, bringing the listeners into the show was tricky. We picked what we felt the most interesting interviews to showcase. We think it's safe to say that the first show was a bit different than the others. The idea was to keep the material simple and focus on one interview topic. The relative success has allowed for more variety in future episodes. We hope listeners are as excited about the variety as we are. How to Pick a Co-Host Joseph Schuenemann, co-host of the ChessGeekGames podcast, has always been interested in chess and coaching. He has worked as a chess coach, played chess as a child, and has knowledge on the legends of the game

Acrotere Design presents L'Automobile d'Orange Toutes les personnalités 3 mm-Geometry is focused on the detail, three points of contact between the body and the chassis, therefore it extends over the wheelarches and the side walls and follows the contours perfectly: the task is completed at the moment when the simulation software is launched. The simulation software offers a wide range of vehicles: - Transportation and urban transit vehicles (buses) - The last representative of the small car world, the Renault Clio - Trucks and buses and the KIA Rio - A Ferrari 488 GTB and a Mercedes-Benz G 63 AMG In addition, the company supports Open Steering to develop its own trailer unit, version and customization. A detailed interior and exterior, complete with hems, buttons and roof rails, can be added to the body. Special kits are also available to be installed to optimize the internal volume. The option to install special parts is provided for all bodywork and can be completed in several versions, or even separately. 4 animation engines available: - CorelAero - TrueMotion - CarMaker 3D - JustDrive 3D characters in an authentic and convincing world The level of detail is 3 mm, with more than 3 million polygons per vehicle, with which the body of the vehicle is divided into a scale of 3 mm in all. By using the tools, we are able to reconstruct a scale of 1:12. All characters are finely modeled according to the manufacturer's vehicles and are designed in color to capture the feel of the original. The colors are classic 1960's orange. The interior of the models is fully designed with tools. Cloth is 3D-printed. We are able to customize almost all the parameters. The interior and exterior remain faithful to their original: the paneling and the window frames, the switches and buttons and the roofs are in place to achieve the look of the vehicle in the best possible way. 3 animation systems: - JustDrive 2.0 - CarMaker 3D - CorelAero The choice of a model also includes the choice of a character's animations. The sounds are recorded on the last models of the X17 series in France, together with the sounds of the current X17 versions. It is worth noting that these models
