The Watchmaker is a visual novel developed by Tenshu for Windows, Macintosh and Linux platforms. It is the first title to be published by Tenshu. Available for the PC and Mac, it is set in a blend of steampunk and medieval times. It is a story in which a young man, Alexander, is haunted by a voice that appears to be a disembodied spirit. Alexander will have to use his magnetic glove, his ability to control time, and an assortment of other objects to complete challenges that will lead him in the search of the saboteur who, through mischievous means, has tampered with the clock. The Watchmaker is a story of adventure and mischievousness set in an alternate version of the 19th Century. It is a game that will delight adventure and puzzle game fans, and at the same time welcome them to the steampunk genre. It is not a game of highbrow philosophy, but it is a game that comes with a story that is fun to read, combined with many other interesting characters, situations and puzzles. It is a different kind of time to a different kind of game! - The Watchmaker, 70% liked it, 8 out of 10 people recommend it In The Watchmaker, a puzzle-adventure game, players take on the role of Alexander. In his steampunk world of giant clock mechanisms, Alexanders routine involves repairing his precious clock tower every day, adjusting its mechanisms, oiling the gears and polishing everything down to the smallest piece. For years, this is the only life he has known. But one day Alexander is awakened by a mysterious voice. This disembodied voice alerts him that something has gone wrong: someone, some unknown being, has sabotaged his beautiful tower. With the clock not working properly, time has gone mad. Consequently, Alexander starts ageing abnormally quickly, leaving him only a handful of time to repair the damage. Guided by the mysterious voice and armed with a magnetic glove and the ability to control time, he must search the halls and arcades of the tower in search of the saboteur. Various obstacles, enemies and riddles buried in the clocks intricate mechanisms stand in his way. But Alexander must push on to save the clock and restore time to its natural rhythm, all while gradually uncovering the mysteries of the tower and its even stranger past. What's new in The Watchmaker:

Manifold, also known as the Manifold Preload systems was designed by Zenith Watch Company in the 1920's and 1930's. By filling a pocket in the middle of the movement case, it becomes possible to have a movement working in a truer gravity mode or by sitting the watch the gravity setting is read correctly. The part (trimmer spring) known as the "gravity master spring" is used to ride on a crescent shaped piece sticking out to the edge and the inner ridge. It is quite curious and I have seen 7135 E27 top load always set correct by gravity. Gravity setting is, when a watch case hole is slightly larger than the watch movement. When a pocket part is filled in the spring's creases slide up and down slightly depending on the water pressure. When the watch is on a wrist the water pressure should be high, about 20 Hg, but when it is on a table or in a pocket low pressure, about 7-10 Hg, is received. But pocket's capacity is bigger, usually 20 Hg, so it cannot be filled up, and it cannot be pushed inside the pocket case, because friction between the watch body and the leather pocket will hamper that. A pocket part that easily sticks out is used and fills it up. This pocket part is located in the case edge, and it is a ring which has a tang on one end. When the watch is on a pocket, the pressure will make the tang go up and the ring will penetrate the case and sits on a ring on the pocket's backside. So the watch does not stand on that peircing part directly, because then the automatic operation of the accuracy indicator (Alarm, RTC, or Seconds hand) would have to be cancelled. The Gravity Master part is used to ride on the backside of the pocket's portion, which is called the trimmer spring, and the inner ridge. The gravity master spring has holes for the crescent shaped portions and has its similar shaped part, with holes, toward the second hand. It has three holes, 2mm, 1mm and 0.5mm, for the spring to ride. Current watches mass produced with the Manifold sytems have part called spring engagement hole in the middle of the case edge, and the hole is about 2 mm and as deep as 2 mm. The pocket part is made to slide on this hole, with the hollow part of the hole, and sits on the back
